XCE is a new mountain bike race format in which four, five, or six riders compete against each other in each heat. The two or three fastest riders get to the next round while the two, three, or four slower riders are eliminated from the race.

Each rider will ride a time trial lap of the XCE course to qualify for the main event; riders will be ranked for the main event using their qualifying time. Time trial start order will be determined by order of registration. (1st to sign up is first to go off.)

In the main event racers will compete in heats of 6, with the top 3 moving on to the next heat and the others being eliminated. In the Semi-finals only the top 2 of each heat move onto the finals. The XCE Schedule can be found at the end of this document.

Final results will be calculated by position in final round, then by qualification time based on round.
